Additional Information About Your Card

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issues several kinds of cards for different purposes. Please read the information in this notice on how to use your card. If you are 18 years of age or older, you are required to carry your Employment Authorization Document or Permanent Resident Card or other proof of alien registration in the United States with you at all times so it is available when needed. If you received a Permanent Resident Card or Combination Employment Authorization and Advance Parole Card (combo card), you should take it with you when you travel outside the United States so you can show it to a Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Officer upon your return to a U.S. port of entry. If you forget to take your card or lose it while traveling outside the United States, contact the nearest U.S. Embassy or consulate for travel assistance.

Permanent Resident Card

Your card has an expiration date.

- If you are a conditional resident, you should apply to remove the conditions 90 days before your card expires.
- If you are a permanent resident, the expiration date does not affect your status, but you should use Form I-90, Application to Replace Permanent Resident Card, to apply for a new card as early as 6 months before your card expires.

As a permanent resident, you should be aware that:

- If your card is lost, stolen, or becomes damaged, or your name or other information shown on your card changes, use Form I-90 to apply for a new card.
- If you are going to travel and believe you may be outside of the United States for a year or more, you should apply for a reentry permit. You must be physically present in the United States when you file the reentry permit application and complete the biometrics services requirement. See Form I-131, Application for Travel Document, for information.
- You can sponsor the immigration of certain relatives. See Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative, for information.
- Permanent residents can apply to become American citizens after a certain period of residence in the United States. Usually, you have to be a permanent resident for 5 years, but in some circumstances you can apply earlier. See Form M-476, A Guide to Naturalization, or visit the Citizenship Resource Center at www.uscis.gov/citizenship.

USCIS has a guide for new permanent residents called "Welcome to the United States: A Guide for New Immigrants." It has important information about your rights and responsibilities. The guide is available at www.uscis.gov/newimmigrants in English and a variety of languages.

Employment Authorization Document (EAD)

You are authorized to work consistent with any conditions shown on the card until it expires.

- If you apply for a job, you may show your card to the employer to show that you are authorized to work while the card is valid. Employers may accept the new card as a List A document when completing the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I-9).
- If you are already employed and this card extends your employment authorization, you may show this new card to your employer to show that your work authorization has been extended.

Your EAD may also serve as evidence of your immigration status. In other cases, your EAD may show that you have a pending application for an immigration benefit that authorizes employment while the application is pending.

You may apply for a new EAD if your current card expires before USCIS makes a final decision on your: Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status; Form I-881, Application for Suspension of Deportation or Special Rule Cancellation of Removal; Form I-589, Application for Asylum and for Withholding of Removal; or other pending application that allows for employment while your application is pending. Please refer to the instructions for Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization Document, at www.uscis.gov.

Combination Employment Authorization and Advance Parole Card

Your Combination Employment Authorization and Advance Parole Card (combo card) serves as both an employment authorization document and an advance parole document while your Form I-485 is pending with USCIS. See the information above relating to employment authorization.

Your combo card also allows you to seek parole into the United States upon returning from travel outside of the United States. You should take your combo card with you when you travel outside the United States so you can present it to a CBP Officer at a U.S. port of entry to seek parole upon your return. Please see the instructions for Form I-131 and the enclosed Form I-931, which provide important additional information about using an advance parole document for travel.
